

parently killed in a hard fight with a superior force of rebels.

The insurgents still hold Smilveo. Many Turkish soldiers with seven cannon are only a few miles off, but they dare not attack the village. Before the bands reached Smilveo 100 soldiers occupying the village killed many of the Christian inhabitants and burned a large part of the place. The bands on their arrival wiped out the garrison.

POWERS ACQUIESCE.

Russia Will Be Given a Free Hand in Turkey.

London, Aug. 15.—There is reason to believe that the powers, certainly Great Britain, will raise no objections to the demands of Russia on Turkey or to the stay of her army on the Turkish waters until her demands shall have been fully complied with. Count Lamsdorff's representations to Bulgaria are due to the wish of the Russian government to localize the trouble, as desired by Great Britain and Austria.

The Associated Press correspondent was informed at the admiralty today that no instructions had been sent to the Mediterranean fleet to proceed to the Mediterranean. Two guard ships are stationed at Constantinople and a cruiser is at Salonica.

Widow Not Pacified.

Constantinople, Aug. 15.—The widow of M. Rostkovski, informing Hilmi Pasha, the inspector general of Macedonia, that she would not accept the immunity of $50,000 offered by the Porte for the murder of her husband, said she did not want Turkish charity. She has returned the decoration of the Order of Nishan-i-Shipakat, bestowed on her by the sultan, and also her husband's Turkish decorations.

A steamer has left for the Dardanelles to embark Ali Riza Pasha, the dismissed wali of Monastir, who has been exiled to Tripoli.

Surprise at Vienna.

Vienna, Aug. 15.—The publication here of the announcement that Russia intends to send a fleet to the Black sea has caused general surprise. This being a Catholic holiday, it is impossible to procure an official statement, but among minor officials and the public generally the opinion is expressed that unless it develops that Austria was cognizant of Russia's proposed action the Austro-Russian Balkan agreement may be vitally affected, as the news would seem to indicate that Russia intends to pursue a more independent course than heretofore.

Opinion in Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 14.—The foreign officials here do not think the Russian Black sea squadron will appear before Constantinople, which might give encouragement to the revolutionary elements in Macedonia, as Count Lamsdorff's note published today shows that Russia is keeping the question of satisfaction for the murder of the consul at Monastir distinct from the general Macedonian question.

No News in Washington.

Washington, Aug. 15.—No information can be obtained here concerning the Russian imbroglio with Turkey. The state department has not been advised by its dispatchers of the city of Constantinople, and there are no members of the Russian embassy at present in the capital city.

France Supports Russia.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Although Foreign Minister Delcasse and most of the responsible officials are absent, assurances were given that official opinion is strongly in support of Russia's action, as the French policy throughout has favored an energetic course.

AND ST. COME THE TOURISTS

Nearly 3,000 G. A. R. Excur-sionists in Latest Installment.

TRAVELERS HAVE VARIED IM-PRESSIONS ABOUT THE CITY.

Nearly 3,000 persons came through the city over the Rio Grande alone yesterday. All were headed for the big encampment at Frisco next week and most of them stopped off for several hours to see the city.

As has been the case throughout the week, most of the visitors were venerable G. A. R. men, accompanied by their families, and a few others who took advantage of the cheap rates to visit the coast. Most of them were experienced travelers and in some cases presented strange appearances. The hotels did not profit extensively, as most of the visitors practically lived in the cars. Neither were the dining cars particularly over-crowded, for the tourists as a rule carried lunches with them. It was a good-natured throng, however, and even the seemed to be enjoying himself to the limit.

Big Crowds at Lake.

The visitors seemed principally interested in seeing the lake and the temple and tabernacle. Immense crowds went to Saltair during the forenoon, afternoon and evening, many of them indulging in a dip in the brine. The temple grounds were covered with people during the day who gazed in wonderment at the temple and inspected the tabernacle and the great organ. Large parties strolled about the city and visited most of the old landmarks and points of interest. Everyone seemed pleased with the city and remarked about its beauty. The wide streets seemed to attract favorable comment, and the length of the blocks was also remarked upon, although not favorably by some. Many visitors were learning that the Rio Grande depot was only "five or six blocks" from Main street attempted to walk the distance. Before they reached the place, however, they were strong in their denunciation of Brigham Young's plan of laying out a city.

Considerable wonderment was expressed by many of the visitors, particularly those from the middle states, as to how the people of Salt Lake make a livelihood. The agricultural possibilities of the state do not appear strongly to the residents of the middle section, where wheat and corn fields are measured by the hundred acres. Many of them who had visited the resorts were surprised at the crowds present and the money spent.

Puzzled by Street Numbers.

As usual, one thing that puzzled the strangers was the system of numbering the streets here. They seemed to be unable to comprehend what is really a simple system, once understood. The combination of the different directions, as East, South Temple or North First West, had the visitors stumped, and they seemed unable to grasp the plan even with the assistance of guide books. The police have been fortunate in protecting the tourists from grafters while in the city. Only two thefts have been thus far reported and they were for very small amounts.

A rather amusing incident happened yesterday afternoon on Main street. A party of tourists had eaten at a restaurant in the morning and rather liked the place. They were unable, however, to find it in the afternoon and called upon a policeman for assistance. They did not know the name of the cafe, but knew that there was an auburn-haired waitress there and that she was a native of Salt Lake. The policeman was unable to give them any assistance and they went their way, remarking about the general inefficiency of police departments.

AERONAUT IS INJURED

Bert Nelson Meets With Serious Injuries Due to Fall From Balloon.

Bert Nelson, the young Salt Lake boy who astonished everyone by making a balloon ascension at Calder's park some time ago, fell while attempting to repeat the exhibition last night, and it is feared that he sustained serious injuries.

The young man was inexperienced in laying out his parachute, and in fastening it to the balloon got the ropes tangled in the ropes of the balloon. He was seen to fall from the balloon and then cut loose in the parachute. The latter refused to open and the aeronaut dropped straight to the ground like a shot. The crowd that watched him stood as if spellbound until they saw him strike the ground in a Chinaman's truck patch some distance away. Expecting to find him crushed to death, several men ran to the place. They found that the young man lay unconscious, but alive. He was picked up and carried to the Holy Cross hospital. The balloon was removed to his home on Seventh South street. Apparently there were no bones broken, but the injured man was splitting blood, and it is feared that he sustained internal injuries of a serious nature.

RATS MAKE HIM GOOD.

Boy Says the Rodents Are Reformatory Agents.

Dean Foster, an 11-year-old youth, faced Judge Diehl yesterday morning on the charge of incorrigibility. According to the statement of his parents, the lad is inclined to be unruly and does not follow out the parental injunctions as he should. It seems the boy has a mania for running away from home, and as a last resort his parents decided to place him in the industrial school at Ogden.

The boy was arrested Friday and spent a night at the county jail. This experience had a good effect on him and he made such a penitent appeal yesterday that the judge let him go under suspended sentence. He said the rats and mice in the jail frightened him so that he could not sleep, and upon promising to be a better boy in the future, was released.

THE SALT LAKE HERALD, SUNDAY, AUGUST 16, 1903

REGIMENTAL QUARTERMASTER SERGEANT A. H. LUND.

One of the best known of the enlisted men of the guard is A. H. Lund, the regimental quartermaster sergeant and a member of the company B. Sergeant Lund was mustered into the first company to enter the guard in 1894. In this company he served with distinction, resulting in his being appointed color sergeant six years ago by Colonel Ritchie. This position he held constantly since until his more recent appointment. Sergeant Lund has been active in the reorganization of company B. This company has to its credit the winning of every trophy for drilling, shooting or other military competition ever offered in the guard.

GREAT COST OF YACHT RACING

Fortunes Spent Over an Old Silver Trophy—Lipton Has Spent Money by the Millions While Defenders of the Cup Have Lavished Great Sums.

OCCASIONAL inquiries are made by thoughtful citizens regarding the cost of challenging and defending the America's cup, but the answers received are always unsatisfactory. The conclusion is that the expense must be enormous, but as it is impossible to obtain anything like accurate figures, the subject is generally dropped.

On the eve of the international match of this year it may be interesting to refer to this important point and at the same time to place the public in possession of a few facts that will give them a good idea of the amounts of money that are expended in trying to capture the old yachting trophy and in the efforts made by the N. Y. Y. C. to defend it.

The planning and building of a cup challenger or defender involves much time and labor and necessarily the outlay of large sums of money. The designer and his corps of assistants are the first that must be met. Mr. Eife, the challenger parties, and Captain "Nat" Herreshoff, for the defenders, for instance, are men who place a high value upon their services, and as the owners of the yachts are liberal to a marked degree, opening negotiations with a view to the building of a cup yacht means a fee that in some other professions would be looked upon as staggering in its proportions.

With the designer at work the builders in time are consulted, and with arrangements satisfactory in this wise, materials must be considered, the riggers kept in mind, the sailmakers, while finally the skippers and crew are secured. Money is required by all these, and much of it.

Even after a vessel is completed and placed in commission alterations and repairs are required frequently at times, while docking the craft for cleaning and smoothing purposes means large additional sums.

A Great First Cost.

The rather startling statement was made by Sir Thomas Lipton four years ago that the mere cost of the Shamrock I was between $400,000 and $500,000, while the expense of bringing the vessel across the ocean and that of her officers and crew was extra. That seems a big lot to pay for the vessel, but Sir Thomas should be the best of authority on the subject of the cost of the yacht. If he expended his money in building half a million dollars four years ago for his challenging yacht, the money the present trip is costing him must be far in excess of the figures named. The Lipton fleet now here is proof of that. It is easy to believe that the Shamrock III cost quite as much to build as the Shamrock I, and it is quite sure that the building over of the vessel, and those of the Shamrocks and of the tender Cruiser, must stand him in a bigger amount than the single crew of four years ago and the vessel's assistance he obtained in this country.

So, if $500,000 or more represented the challenger's outlay the first attempt he made upon the America's cup, it can safely be estimated that something in the neighborhood of $600,000 will be required to foot the bills at home and here incidental to his third trial to win the old trophy.

With the amount that it costs the defending side, however, the interest is more widespread. By the time the yachts are called to sail, the cost for the cup, the Reliance, selected, to defend it, will have cost one way and another, $435,000 or more. That is a staggering amount to contemplate, but everything is cleared up at the end of the season it may be $450,000.

Cost of Trial Yachts.

In addition to this sum there must be considered that the placing in commission of the Constitution her running expenses reached from $65,000 to $70,000, while the Columbia has cost J. Phippen $45,000 or possibly $35,000. These figures will, therefore, show that the defense of the cup this year will approach the very respectable amount of $775,000 or $800,000.

The boy was arrested Friday and spent a night at the county jail. This experience had a good effect on him and he made such a penitent appeal yesterday that the judge let him go under suspended sentence. He said the rats and mice in the jail frightened him so that he could not sleep, and upon promising to be a better boy in the future, was released.

The building and rigging of the Reliance cost a fortune. The yacht's construction required the best of workmen, while all the standing and running rigging was expressly made, and her canvas occupied the attention of a large body of sailmakers for months. The Reliance has possibly 100 different sails and $15,000 or so will represent the cost of a suit. In this particular the Constitution and the Columbia have not been so expensive.

The tenders Park City and Satellite are said to have been purchased by E. D. Morgan and August Belmont, respectively, but the same value is assumed and need not be seriously considered in this financial summary. The tender Sunbeam is chartered and there can be no return from her, but Sir Thomas' tender, Cruiser, will be valuable after the match.

With a crew of about fifty-five on the Reliance and a crew on the tender Sunbeam there are many men to be looked after daily. The yachts' sailors are paid big wages—$35 a month or more—and there is a scale of prize money arranged by Mr. Iselin so liberal that a Reliance man, if he is saving, will end the season with a tidy amount to his credit.

About Racing Crews.

Racing crews cost prodigiously to feed, as they are men in the best of health, while their work naturally gives them excellent appetites. There are quite as many stewards and cooks on the Reliance as there are sailors, and Mr. Iselin and his associates and the officers and crew of the Reliance and their own ship's are found in a 600-sized city hotel.

All changes in the yacht's fittings, alterations or repairs to rigging and spars are paid for extra, while the docking bills are very large. The $450,000 or more that the Reliance will cost must not be included in any way with the N. Y. Y. C.'s expenditures in arranging for the races. The nine men who own the defender will bear the burden of about vessel's expenses, but the syndicate does not meet the personal bills of Mr. Iselin, the managing owner.

It may cost the club $25,000 or more to see that the match is properly sailed and the challenging vessel receives all that is due her, while the amount incidentally expended by the public that must witness the races need not now be thought of.

Days of the Thistle.

It is said that when George L. Watson was approached by the syndicate that built the Thistle about designing a cup challenger he not only consented, but insisted on designing the boat, superintending her construction and seeing her through her trials and the races all for nothing—all for the pure love of the pastime so dear to him.

And it may interest those who have been speculating upon the amounts which the defense of the cup cost, and upon American yachtsmen, and possibly upon the burden which Sir Thomas Lipton is carrying, that the Thistle was produced complete for about $45,000.

VENGEANCE OF THE MOSCOVITE

Murderers of the Consul Were Soon Executed.

SPEEDY TRIAL AND SENTENCE

ACCOUNT GIVEN BY DEAD MAN'S SUCCESSOR.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—The following telegram has been received by the government authorities from Dr. Mandelstam, who succeeded M. Rostkovski, the murdered Russian consul, at Monastir, giving an account of the court-martial of the murderer:

"After proceedings extending over four days, the military court presided over by Edhem Bey today gave judgment. During the trial I exercised the rights and privileges of a public prosecutor, in view of the circulation of outrageous rumors that the consul had insulted and struck the Turkish sentry, and even that he had shot at him. I insisted that before the court gave judgment it should clear up the circumstances of the affair. By replying to a series of questions put by myself, the court found as follows:

"The sentry did not give the consul a military salute. The consul first beckoned to him and then left the carriage and asked the man his name. It was absolutely proven that M. Rostkovski neither shot at Halim (the sentry) nor in any way insulted him, but that Halim immediately fired at the consul several times, and when the consul fell, stepped up and fired again with the rifle close to the consul's head, afterward battering his temples with the butt end of his rifle.

The Persons Implicated.

"Halim was charged with the actual murder. Another sentry, named Abbas, who was charged with having failed to afford the consul any protection, and two other sentries, Seinel and Assin, who were absent at the time of the murder, but the former of whom tried to excuse his comrade, were brought before the court. The chief of the gendarmerie was charged with having placed at important posts wild Albanians who could not even speak Turkish. Second Lieutenants Ismail Hakki and Salich Kadri were prosecuted because on the way to the Russian consulate after the murder, in speaking with Schoolmaster Miskioff, they referred to the murdered consul in coarse and insulting terms. Tewfik, a lamp cleaner who before the court contradicted the testimony of the other witnesses and declared that the consul had struck the sentry and had shot at him, was charged with perjury.

"The court-martial sentenced Halim and Abbas to death, Seinel to fifteen years' servitude, the officers Ismail and Salich were sentenced to be dismissed from the army. Assin was acquitted. After I had signed the judgment it was read to the accused in my presence.

Were Hanged Immediately.

"Husein Hilmi Pasha stated that he had received an order from Constantinople to carry out the sentences immediately. The two men sentenced to death were hanged today. The dismissal of the officers from the army will take place this evening. The chief of the gendarmerie, the chief general in the gendarmerie and the chief of Monastir and the captain of the company to which Halim belonged have been deprived of their commands and handed over to the judicial authorities. An inquiry has been instituted for the purpose of discovering who fired at the consul's carriage from the military bakery."

RANGE WAR IN MONTANA.

Several Stockmen Arrested For Alleged Crime.

Butte, Aug. 15.—A Miner special from Helena says that a range war of no small dimensions is raging in the northern part of Lewis and Clarke county, in the region of the middle fork of the Dearborn river. Sheriff Jeff O'Connell returned tonight from the scene, having placed seven well known ranchers and cattlemen under arrest. They are all charged with assault in the third degree as the result of an alleged attack made upon Alde-laid Dagnaine, a herder, who says that he was surprised one night last week by twenty armed whitecaps coming upon him with rifles. The whitecaps demolished his corral and slaughtered his sheep. Placing a rope around his neck, according to Dagnaine's story, the whitecaps strung him up to a tree for a few moments. He was let down choking and made to swear he would quit the country and not return the names of his assailants. The next day Dagnaine came to town and swore out complaints, which were served today. Dagnaine says he could only recognize seven of his assailants.
